THIS WEEK

—WE CALL ATTENTION TO—

3-SPECIAL DRIVES-3

Don't Smile When We Tell You
the First on the List Is A Blanket Drive.

We admit that even to talk of Blankets these hot days gives one a tired feeling, but nevertheless when we tell you there is a saving of at least a dollar to a dollar and a half a pair in these blankets for you we know you will be very much alive to your own interest in the matter. Cold weather is ahead of us all right.

$3.50 a Pair

Is the hot weather price of the case of Blankets we propose to make a run on this week. They are pure wool country Blankets, large size, good weight, and come in white, red, gray and plaids. If they don't give you a five dollar bill of satisfaction then we won't ever ask you to buy another Blanket from us.

12 Yards for $1.

The second drive is 12 yards of a 12½c Unbleached Canton Flannel for $1.00.

16 Rolls for $1.00.

The third drive is 16 rolls of a good 10c Cotton Batt for $1. No more than $1 worth each of Flannel and Batts sold to any one customer.

SHIELDED HER BABY

Mrs. Mackey Assaulted at Mrs. Coulson's Place.

CONCUSSION OF THE BRAIN

She Went for Her Husband, and With Her Child in Her Arms Struck Him in the Face—A Row Followed in Which Mrs. Mackey Was Brutally Beaten, and Her Condition Is Dangerous—Mrs. Coulson Behind the Bars.

The ill feeling that has existed for some time between Mrs. Coulson, the saloonist who resides on the Horn switch, and Mrs. Mackey, whose place of business is at the junction of Broadway and East Market street, broke out afresh last night and Mrs. Mackey is lying at her home in Huston addition today with her face looking as though it passed through a threshing machine, and Mayor Gilbert is ready to try Mrs. Coulson for doing the deed.

Patrolman McMillen and Officer Meador were standing in the patrol station at eight o'clock last night when an excited boy ran in the door and gave utterance to the statement between gasps that a woman had been killed at Mrs. Coulson's, on the switch. The officers lost no time in reaching the place, but found it deserted except by the crowd. Mrs. Coulson had gone over the hill toward Seventh street and Mrs. Mackey had staggered up the Horn switch. The officers at once followed up the track, and as they reached the ice plant saw a woman stagger, and then fall heavily. She was accompanied by Joseph Riley, who supported her as well as possible, and when the officers arrived they carried her toward the Dresden pottery where they intended sending for a carriage; but in the meantime the patrol had been called, and the woman was quickly taken to the office of Doctor Taylor, on East Market street, where it was found that she was badly hurt. The report was spread over town that a woman had been killed, and a great crowd gathered. Mrs. Mackey was unconscious for the best part of an hour, but eventually regained her senses and was taken home, the crowd accompanying the patrol. Excitement ran high for a time, but the crowd gradually became quiet as the story was made known.

According to the story told by Mrs. Mackey to a NEWS REVIEW reporter as she lay in bed this morning, her head covered with bandages and a look of pain on her face, she had heard her husband was at Coulson's and determined to go after him. "It was between 7 and 8 o'clock," said the suffering woman, "that I took my 18-months-old baby in my arms and started for the place. I knew he was there, and when I walked in the room he was sitting near the piano. We only had a few words, but he spoke so that I could not stand it and I slapped him across the face with the back of my hand. That made him mad, and he pushed me against the door. Clinging my baby tightly to my breast I stood just outside the door, and demanded of Mrs. Coulson why she had taken my husband from his own home and me. She did not answer, but asked me to come in, and I told her I had never been in a brothel, and I wasn't going to start now. I had been sick with sore throat during the day, and had tied a silk handkerchief around my neck when I started from home. Mrs. Coulson and her daughter Lil grabbed me by the throat, and with all their force pulled me into the room. I knew that Lil hit me with her fist in the face, but that's all. I did not try to protect myself, but did what I could to keep them from hitting the baby. The blows fairly rained on my head, but I don't remember anything about it. This thing has been going on for a year, and I have done everything to keep my husband at home. He had a good job, and we were doing well, but he didn't like to stay at home. So we got the saloon, and I stayed there in the day while he was there at night. But it didn't do any good, and this is what it has come to," and the woman sank back on the pillow weak from the exertion of talking. She is a comely woman, with sandy hair and light complexion, and as she told of how her husband had wronged her, tears came to her eyes, and a sob choked in her throat. She had some trouble with Mrs. Coulson on another occasion on Washington street, and at that time there was a declaration that something serious would grow out of it if the man Mackey continued to ignore his wife.

There are several stories about the fight and it was hard to locate anyone who had seen it. One story says that Mackey himself struck his wife, and the authorities incline to this belief, thinking the poor woman will shield her husband to the last. These facts, however, can only be brought out at the hearing, and the police are expressing no opinion. Another trouble is to locate the instrument with which the crime was committed. One story has it that the blows were struck with a piece of ball bat kept about the place for the purpose of preserving order, and others have it that a beer mallet was used. The doctor knows the wounds were inflicted by a blunt instrument, but of course is unable to tell what sort of a thing it was.

Mrs. Coulson positively declares that Mrs. Mackey was not hurt at her place. She says that while in the house Mrs. Mackey was not hurt, but if injured at all must have been assaulted after she left the place. Mrs. Coulson was arrested by Officers Whan, Meador and Jennings, and is in jail awaiting the result of Mrs. Mackey's injuries.

THE INJURIES.

Mrs. Mackey Suffers from Concussion of the Brain.

When Doctor Taylor examined Mrs. Mackey he found that she was suffering from concussion of the brain and was in a dangerous condition. A blow on the right side of the head near the temple had caused the greatest damage, and another on the left cheek had caused a great deal of swelling and discoloration. A large bruise on the left shoulder showed where a blow aimed at the head had missed its mark. The woman's face was covered with blood, but this came from a cut on the lip and amounts to almost nothing. If a clot should form Mrs. Mackey will die. Of that there is no question in the mind of the physician, and he is doing all in his power to prevent it. The woman has been unconscious several times during the day, and seems to suffer much. It will require several days for the physicians to tell whether she will live, but the chances this afternoon are, if anything, against it. The blows were struck by a strong arm, and it is a wonder the woman was not killed at once.

YORK AND IRONS

Suggested as Attractions for the Lisbon Fair.

A prominent wheelman suggests that the Lisbon boys can have all the racing with Liverpool they want provided they agree to terms that are fair. Irons will be sent against Steele or any man they may see fit to select in the county, and York will be matched to ride against any rider they have in view. There is Liverpool money to back every word of what they say.

Irons and Trappe went to Youngstown last night, where they are entered in the races today, along with over 250 other riders. Hale was sore after his fall on Monday, and decided to stay out.

The Shamrocks and the Young Men's Christian association will play ball on the West End grounds next Monday afternoon. Each team has a game to its credit, and a tie game, called in the tenth inning because of darkness, makes up the list. The best men of each club will be selected for the game.

WILLIAM E. JAMES DEAD.

The Janitor of the First Presbyterian Church Passed Away.

William E. James, for eight years a resident of this city, seven of which were consumed while he was engaged as janitor of the First Presbyterian church, died at his home on Third street last night. Mr. James had been ill for years, suffering from asthma, but has been confined to his room for six weeks. He was born in Wales, but came to this country many years ago. His loving wife, three sons and five daughters survive him, and there is sorrow in that home today, because William James was a man among men in his family. He was 57 years old. Doctor Lee was notified by wire this morning, and the funeral will take place tomorrow, with interment in Riverview.

THE LISBON LINE.

Telephone Officials are Getting Ready to Build.

Poles are being unloaded at Wells for the new telephone line, soon to be built to Lisbon, and the company's officials are preparing to have the line built at once. The new line will be made up of three metallic circuits, will be two miles shorter, and promises a much better service for Liverpool, though we will have to send our words through Wellsville before they get to the county seat. There are enough lines between this city and Wellsville to take care of all the business.

HIGH GOES OLD GLORY

The Flag Raising to be a Notable Event.

HOW THE PARADE WILL MARCH

All the Patriotic Societies Will Be in Line, and All the People Are Asked to Join in the Flag Raising—What Arrangements Have Been Made For the Event.

All the arrangements for the raising of Old Glory over the Central school building have been made, and the patriotic societies will on Friday have the biggest day they have ever known in the city.

The arrangements include a program that will be carried out to the letter, and a parade that will march as the powers have decided. The committees have consumed several weeks in arranging their affairs, and it has been no easy task, but that is all done now and they are ready for success to crown their every effort. The program for the exercises at the building when the flag will be raised is as follows:

Master of Ceremonies..... Prof. Sanor
Music.....by Manley's Band
Prayer.....by Rev. Huston
Dedictory address.....by Prof. Geo. J. Luckey
Response.....by Geo. H. K. Hill
Presentation of Flag.....by Hon. P. C. Young
Accepting of Flag for Board of Education.....by Rev. J. C. Taggart
Music.....by Manley's Band
Address.....by P. A. Shanor
National V. Councilor Jr. O. U. A. M.
Address.....by Dr. A. E. Cramer, P. O. S. of A.
Address.....by Dr. Spencer,
State Councilor Jr. O. U. A. M.
Address.....by L. A. Pierce,
State V. Councilor Jr. O. U. A. M.
Benediction.....by Rev. O'Mara
Flag Raising.
Music—"Star Spangled Banner".....by Both Bands

Before the above will be passed through the parade will march formed on Broadway with right resting on Fifth. The line of march will be to Jefferson, to Sixth, to the Diamond, to Market, to Fourth, to Union, and the procession will start at one o'clock in this order:

Chief Marshal Willis Davidson
Mounted aides
Squad of police
Manley's band
General Lyon Post
Sons of Veterans
Visiting councils O. U. A. M.
Gen. George H. Thomas council
Drum corps
Visiting camps P. O. S. of A.
Washington camp
Haynes' band
Visiting councils Jr. O. U. A. M.
Pride of the East council
Citizens' club
Speakers and guests
Board of education
City officials
Fire department.

The speakers from a distance will all be here, and among them are some of the most eloquent young men of this part of the world. Professor Luckey may not be able to reach here before the afternoon train, but the program has been arranged so there will be no delay. The societies interested invite everyone to turn out with them, and make this flag raising an event in the history of the city. They have done their part in preparing for the ceremonies, and ask the people to join them in thus floating the emblem of liberty over its most desirable production.

The committee requests that all business houses and factories close their doors on Friday at noon in order that every one will be given an opportunity to attend the exercises. The final meeting of the committee will be held this evening.

NEXT YEAR

The Farmers Will Parade on Labor Day.

Had the farmers of St. Clair township known that the Labor Day parade would have been delayed until nine o'clock, a delegation of 50, mounted on the best horses they owned, would have been in line. They discussed the project in its every phase, and at length decided that it would not do for them to be late, and it would be impossible for them to appear in town at eight o'clock, the hour at which the parade was advertised to start. However, they will be in line next year if all goes well, winding up the procession and carrying a banner with the words "The farmer feeds them all." They promise 100 mounted men.

IN THE SHADOW.

The Eclipse of the Moon Was Pretty Last Night.

The moon looked its prettiest last night, and the eclipse was seen by many people in the city. Not a cloud obscured the sky, and the event was seen by all who took the time from their beauty sleep. At no time during the hour when the shadow covered the face of the satellite did the sight seem anything but the most beautiful scene the firmament has given the dwellers of earth in this generation. All the conditions were perfect, and the beautiful light that followed the eclipse was all that could be asked. Several hundred people in the city saw the eclipse, and were well repaid for the late hours they were compelled to keep.

YOUTHFUL SMOKERS.

Cigarettes Were Plentiful at Central Building.

As the youngsters came tearing out of central school building yesterday afternoon, a dozen or more were seen to draw cigarettes from their pockets, and striking matches as close to the building as the alley walked leisurely away, puffing as proudly as though their trousers were long and their collars were high. One youth not over ten years of age passed a box around to his companions, who helped themselves, except one youngster who refused but scraped a handful of "scraps" out of his coat pocket and took a "chew." The scene was witnessed by two residents, who thought there was a law prohibiting the sale of tobacco to children.

IN FULL BLOOM.

A West End Apple Tree Is Working Double Time.

Mark Douglass, the genial superintendent of the Specialty, has an apple tree at his residence on Denver street, which is attracting a great deal of attention because it is in full bloom. The tree is young, and Mark argues that its youth and inexperience may be the cause of its condition, but he can not deny that it was covered with blossoms early in the spring and bore a creditable crop of fruit. The apples were as palatable as ordinary apples, and when the crop was ripe the blossoms came again. They were noticed for the first time yesterday morning, and by evening there were dozens of bouquets on the little tree.

IT MUST BE

Pittsburg Coal Men Interested in the Cincinnati Convention.

At a well attended meeting of the coal exchange held in Pittsburg yesterday, it was decided that the body be represented at the river convention in Cincinnati, and that it do all within its power to have the Ohio slackwatered its entire length. The movement to improve our big stream is receiving more attention in Pittsburg just now than at any time in the past, and prominent rivermen are being quoted every day as favoring the movement. Now that Cincinnati and some other river towns are interested the prospects for a happy termination of the plan grow brighter every month.

A REPUBLICAN CLUB.

Young Members Of the Party Want One Organized.

A movement is on foot having for its object the organization of a Republican club in the city, and the projectors are more than anxious to have success crown their efforts when the campaign is yet young. The plan has not yet taken definite form, but it is generally conceded among the young men who are interested that the organization should be permanent, and should be attached to the League of Republican clubs, as was the Ceramic club of a few years ago. A meeting may be called for the purpose of organization next week.

TO A HIGHER COURT.

The Rinehart Case Not To Be Settled Here.

The case of McCain against Rinehart because vehicles are allowed to stand in the street was argued before Mayor Gilbert yesterday afternoon, and cost the defendant $20.55, a fine of $1 and costs. The amount was paid under protest, and the case will be settled in common pleas next term. The lawyer for the defense argued that the property owner had a right to occupy one-half of the street, but Attorney Brookes took the wind out of his sails by asking what the public would do if the other property owner decided to take his half at the same time.

Died This Morning.

The little child of Otto Pohner died at the family residence on May street this morning, and will be buried tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in Riverview.

Stricken With Paralysis.

R. F. Young, for several years a grocer on the Calcutta road, was stricken by paralysis this morning, and is in a critical condition this afternoon.

TALE OF THREE TRAMPS

How a Few Dollars Passed Among Them.

IT STARTED IN WELLSVILLE

Moved to Liverpool, and Eventually Traveled Toward Pittsburg—The Police Were Brought Into the Plan, But Dropped It in a Hurry When They Saw the Game.

A party of tramps were taken from a train in Wellsville the other night because the railroad company object to carrying passengers without each one paying his fare, and the prisoners were turned over to the authorities for punishment. Although Wellsville is a railroad town and the people are largely employed by the Cleveland & Pittsburg, they do not like to pay for punishing culprits of this kind, and they have a rule which works very well. If a man has money they lock him up until he pays the fine imposed, and if he has none they turn him loose to work on the streets or run away just as he sees fit.

Now one of these tramps happened to have $8, and the authorities locked him up while his friends were sent out to work. He knew about the Wellsville system, and with what he believed was native shrewdness gave one of the tramps his money in the belief that he was honest enough to wait for him on the outside, for he knew he would be released when it was found that his dollars had disappeared. But he counted without having first tested the integrity of his friend, for no sooner was that individual sent out with pick and shovel than he dropped these implements of honest toil and started for Liverpool. Forgetting all about the poor fellow in jail, he made friends with another tramp and to him confided the story of the money. This individual chanced to be smart, and he at once began to tell his new found friend what powers he possessed as a billiard player. He entranced him with the stories, and carried his hearer through many a game where impossible shots and difficult feats made great and glorious victories. So long a time did these tales require in narration that the pair had overtaken two other tramps known to the billiardist, and the quartet had journeyed on to the city. At length the man who talked so much of his playing took the chap with the money into a convenient doorway, and imparted the fact that he would like to borrow "de stuff" for a few minutes, and if he would lend him the amount all would derive some benefit from it. He proposed to jingle it in his pocket as he entered a billiard hall, play a game or two, beat the proprietor if possible, and then secure a position and rope in the devotees of the sport. The plan seemed reasonable to the man of money, particularly as he was to be paid back and in addition receive liberal interest for the few hours it was to be out of his pocket. He handed over the silver, his friend entered the billiard hall, and he waited. For the best part of the day he lingered on the outside, and becoming impatient he entered the hall. No friend was there nor had any one seen him around, and filled with rage he inquired for city hall, and reported the loss to the police. They by close questioning compelled him to tell the story as a whole, and seeing that it was only taking money from a thief, they told him he would have to recover it himself. Disappointed and swearing under his breath, but with a far too wholesome regard of the law to swear aloud, he wandered to the passenger station, and inquired for his companions. As luck would have it some one had seen them go up the track, and word was at once sent to the police, but not the officers who had turned the man away. Thinking the case a big one, and seeing glory in an arrest of this kind, they hastened to Thompson's pottery, and arrested three men, the booster and the pair who had joined them on the way. They were taken to city hall where they were examined, and the same story came out, but nothing could be done. There was the word of three against one, and the officers who had turned the first vagabond away had a hearty laugh at the expense of the other police. And now they won't tell the names of the blue coated boys who had a long walk for nothing, but smile when they talk of it just the same. All the tramps left town together and have doubtless spent so much of the money that there will be little left for the confiding one when he is released from the Wellsville jail.

A Fight At Walker.

There was a fight on the Wellsville road last night near Walker, and one man had his face cut and his coat stolen. The crowd was from this city.

For Auditor, GEO. B. HALEY.
For Commissioner, JOSEPH FRENCH.
For Judiciary Director, J. M. McBRIDE.

The foreign policy of the government at present is possessed of the meekness of a sleepy sheep and the
idiotcy of a wild jackass.

MCKINLEY for president, Foraker
for senator and Bushnell for governor
make the best battle cry Ohio
Republicans have had in many years.

THE Democrats who seek a place
once more in the legislature, and are telling their constituents how the last Republican assembly robbed the state,
should return their portion of the
"robbery" to the treasury.

THIS day for the man who has his job printing done in a job office, and then betakes himself to the nearest newspaper for the purpose of having
his entertainment or business boomed
for nothing is rapidly nearing an end.
That business is business means just
as much in newspaper business as it means in any other business.

ONLY ONE ISSUE.

Our Democratic brethren tell us
that the tariff as a political issue is dead, and that never again will the people recognize in it that merit which
it possessed prior to the passage of the Wilson bill; but as usual our Democratic friends are wrong. They would substitute for the tariff the money question, but even in this they will be disappointed, for they are recognizing honest money, coming
over to the Republican side as it were,
and taking what power they expected
to have and throwing it in the most convenient water. Under the guiding hand of such men as Brice, the Democrats are wandering from their chosen path of silver, repudiating the
bombastic utterances of a year ago,
and leaving the Populists to fight
alone in the cause of the white metal,
but forgetting that they have so often
said money and not tariff is the issue.
With leaders of both parties opposed
to silver there can be no issue on that point. It therefore remains for the Republicans to assault the tariff views
of their opponents, compelling Democrats to fight on the old battle ground
of tariff reform or by their silence
acknowledge that the bitter experience of these past few years has compelled them to abandon their guns.
The tariff is the issue or the Democrats must drop from view as a political party.

A Clew to the Dynamite.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—It is reported that
the police have discovered an important
clew to the perpetrator of the attempt
on the life of Baron Alfonso de Rothschild, on Aug. 24.

Wilson to Open a Fair.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Postmaster
General Wilson has gone to Martin's Grove, Va., where he will deliver an address at the opening of the Jefferson county fair.

A West Virginia Failure.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 4.—Rand & Goshorn, one of the largest and best known drygoods firms in this city, has failed. Liabilities, $50,000; assets, $20,000.

RESERVE SAVED AGAIN

The Bond Syndicate Deposits
$2,000,000 More of Gold.

$1,100,000 SENT TO EUROPE TODAY

Feeling in Financial Circles Serene and Hopeful Notwithstanding the Continued
Shipments—Movement of Crops to Europe Expected to Stop Gold Outflow.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—It is quite evident that the Morgan-Belmont syndicate expects another large drain on the sub-treasury this week. The Farmers'
Loan and Trust company has deposited $2,000,000 in the sub-treasury. No explanation of the deposit was made, but it was generally known that it was for the account of the bond syndicate and the belief was confirmed later by Washington advices.

This is the second financial institution to come to the aid of the syndicate.
The first was the American Exchange
National bank, which deposited $500,- 000 about a week ago. At that time it was said that a number of national banks and financial institutions, which had been members of the bond syndicate, had agreed to aid Messrs. Morgan & Belmont in their effort to keep to the spirit of the contract with the government to maintain the gold reserve
against exports in every way in their power. The deposit, while it is not included in the net gold reserve, will,
if necessary, maintain the reserve
above $100,000,000. The reserve is a trifle in excess of $101,000,000.

The first withdrawal of the week and
month was made by Messrs. Noyes & Fuller, who notified the treasury officials that they would ship $100,000 in gold on an outgoing steamship today. Later Hoskier, Wood & Co. announced that they would require $1,000,000 in gold for shipment today, making a total of $1,100,000 ordered.

Notwithstanding the continued gold
shipments the feeling in financial circles concerning the outlook is serene and hopeful. The possibility of the $100,000,000 being encroached upon as soon as the bond syndicate failed to continue to pour gold into the sub-tre-
sury does not yet seem to be considered.
This is due almost entirely to the expectation that the movement of crops
to Europe will, before long, cause a plentiful supply of commercial bills to be in circulation, and of necessity lower
the rate of exchange to a figure which would practically prohibit the shipment
of gold.

U. S. TREASURY'S CONDITION.

Comparative Statement of Receipts and Expenditures for the Fiscal Year.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The official
comparative statement of government
receipts and expenditures for the current fiscal year to date and for August
has been issued from the treasury.

It shows the receipts for the two months of the fiscal year to have been $58,922,393, against $75,326,945 for the corresponding months of the last fiscal year. Expenditures for the like period
of $71,136,218, against $68,305,219 for the last fiscal year.

The receipts show a gain in customs
as compared with the two months of the last fiscal year of more than $9,000,- 000, due almost wholly to the duty collected on imported sugar. In internal revenue a decrease of $27,000,000 is noted, caused by the heavy withdrawals of spirits from bond during July and August, 1894, to escape the increased tax put on by the new tariff bill.

In expenditures an increase of $2,000,- 000 on the war account is shown as compared with the two months of the last fiscal year, $1,500,000 on the Indian
account, nearly a million on the pension account and $1,250,000 on the interest account, due to the several new bond issues aggregating $162,400. A saving of nearly $1,000,000 is shown
this year over last in the navy account
and nearly $2,000,000 in the civil and miscellaneous account.

For August the receipts were $28,952,- 696 and the expenditures $32,588,184,
leaving the deficit for the month $3,- 635,488.

The treasury deficit for the fiscal year
is stated at $13,113,854. Last year for a like period receipts had exceeded the expenditures $6,921,726.

True State of the Reserve.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—A telegram
to the treasury department announces
the withdrawal of $1,100,000 in gold for export, which leave the true amount of the gold reserve $99,229,858. The treasury officials have received no advices confirming the report that the syndicate has deposited $2,000,000 in New York.

Fought a Double Duel.

MIDDLESBROUGH, Ky., Sept. 4.—A
double duel has been fought 30 miles
from here, in Union county, Tenn., between Lum and Frank Hamilton and John and Henry McCarty. The parties
fought over some lumber, and agreed
to meet and settle according to the duello. Twenty-six shots were fired in all, and each was wounded, but none will die.

Frightful Duel Over Hay.

PERRY, O. T., Sept. 4.—Thirty miles north of here, in Kay county, William Knapp and U. S. Oiler fought over some hay. Oiler cut Knapp badly with an ax and Knapp broke both of Oiler's
arms and stuck a pitchfork through his abdomen. Oiler is dead and Knapp cannot live. Both men are well-to-do farmers.

University of Cincinnati Favored.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 4.—The council of the American Association for the Advancement of Science has taken
an important step by adopting resolutions favoring the selection of the University of Cincinnati as the location of its library of many thousand volumes.

Scared Over the Cholera.

PORTLAND, Or., Sept. 4.—The prevalence of cholera in Honolulu and in the Orient has created a scare here. The local board of health is already adopting stringent measures to repel its invasion.

A RICH WOMAN POISONED.

Her Daughter Arrested Charged With
the Crime in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The funeral of Mrs. Evalina Bliss, a wealthy lady who died last Friday, has been held in this city. Immediately afterward the daughter of the dead woman, Mrs. Alice Flomberg, was arrested at the Colonial
hotel on a charge that she murdered her mother by poison. The case is a mysterious, and in some respects, a sensational one, as the death of Mrs. Bliss gives to her daughter the income from an estate of $300,000 left by Robert Swift Livingstone, who was the first husband of Mrs. Bliss. T. J. Bull-man, who was summoned to her bedside Friday night, Mrs. Bliss said that she had been poisoned by relatives who
she had been financially benefited by her death. She said that she had eaten
clam chowder and a piece of apple pie.
The doctor says that Mrs. Bliss' attendants failed to give her the medicines he left for her. He secured the dish in which the chowder had been, and
a piece of the pie and gave them to the coroner. The coroner had an examination made of the dead woman's stomach by Chemist W. T. Scheele,
who says that he found traces of metallic poison in the stomach, and also in the dish which had contained chowder, and that it had evidently been very skillfully
prepared by some one with a knowledge
of poison.

THEY NEED A THRASHING.

French in Madagascar Is so Deceitful
Which Injure Our Trade.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Acting Consul Wetter, at Tamatave, Madagascar, has supplied the department of state a translation of the more important parts
of a recent customs decree published
there by the French military authorities.

One of the regulations requires that
a ship's register, clearance papers and bills of lading shall be deposited at the customs bureau at the same time as the manifest, to remain there until the departure of the vessel. Mr. Wetter says
this is so much at variance with his instructions that the arrival of an American merchant man in that port would place the consulate in a most peculiar position. He also calls attention to other provisions of the decree, which
he says are at variance with our treaty
with Madagascar. Mr. Wetter states that the effect of the regulations will be a loss to the American cotton trade
of 25 per cent on cost price, and that the exports to the United States are nearly as heavily encumbered.

Gertrude Vanderbilt Engaged.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 4.—The engagement of Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt,
daughter of Cornelius Vanderbilt, and Mr. Moses Taylor, though not formally announced, is now conceded by their friends. The great fortune of Miss Vanderbilt is almost matched by the millions of Mr. Taylor. He is the second son of Henry A. C. Taylor, and his inheritance came from his grandfather, Moses Taylor, one of the most successful and respected of the old-time
merchants.

Evidently a Preposterous Tale.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The Madrid
newspaper statement that a Spanish
squadron is about to sail for the Antilles to urge the claims of Spain against the United States in the Alliance affair
cannot be explained at the state department except upon the theory that it is simply contemplated to reinforce the blockading squadron and that the claims story is erroneous, for no claims
of the description stated are known to exist.

Quiet Under Military Protection.

QUINCY, Mich., Sept. 4.—Everything is quiet. The shovels are all working and the South Shore railroad
is preparing to remove the ore to Marquette. There are very few strikers
around the shops or near the camping
grounds. One of the military companies stationed here will probably be transferred to Negaunee as the shovel
men there have refused to work unless
protected by the soldiers.

Are Knights Tabooing Banknotes?

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The day on which the boycott of national bank
notes, ordered by President Sovereign
of the Knights of Labor in his proclamation two months ago was to go into effect, was yesterday. There is no evidence, however, that the Knights of Labor are tabooing banknotes.

Applauded Gompers and McGuire.

CARMAU, Wales, Sept. 4.—When the Trades Union congress resumed its sittings the president, John Jenkins, delivered his address, the conclusion of which the American delegates, Samuel Gompers and P. J. McGuire, were conducted to the platform. Their appearance was greeted with much applause.

Durrant's Trial Actually Commenced.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—The actual
trial of Theodore Durrant for the murder
of Blanche Lamont has commenced.
District Attorney Barnes delivered the opening address.

Bowler's Decision Coming Soon.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Comptroller Bowler says he probably will not give
his decision in the sugar bounty case today
or tomorrow.

The Weather.

Fair, with warm southerly winds,
followed by threatening weather.

A JUDAS ACT BY TURKS

They Offer Armenians Money,
If Cleared of the Massacre.

RELIEF DISTRIBUTION DELAYED.

The Turks, Angry Because the Armenians Refused Their Offer, Obstructed
Foreign Aid—Atrocities Still Continue
A Girl Abused and a Youth Killed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The following statement has just been received by a gentleman in this city from responsible
persons in Turkey, fully cognizant of
the facts:

"Some time ago a movement was made on the part of the Turks to send aid to the victims of their barbarity at Sassoun. A gift of £2,000 was reported and a committee was organized
to see to its distribution. Small sums were offered to the people on condition
that they would sign receipts in the nature of thanks for the generosity thus manifested, at the same time certifying that it was not the soldiers of the sultan who injured them, but only
a little row that had occurred between them and the Kurds. Naturally they declined the proffered aid on such conditions. Here was the government with fire and sword, and with almost unprecedented and fiendish atrocity
had utterly wasted their homes, coming
and offering a paltry dollar a head to the survivors who are on the ground, as proof of their gracious sovereign charitable regard for them, while they
could go among their moslem neighbors and identify property worth many times this sum as that which had been wrested from them, while it would be easy for the government itself to collect
and return from among the more distant Kurdish nomads nearly the whole amount they had lost.

"In the meantime, English men and women had collected for their fellow Christians some efficient aid. When the government learned of this, and that agents were coming to distribute this money, officials began to say, if these people will not accept our aid, why should we allow others to come in and help them? Influential friends of the sufferers finally persuaded the government to modify their demands to the extent of accepting simply a receipt for funds received, and then the people
were with difficulty persuaded to receive the proffered aid. However, the amount that they have been called upon
to receipt for up to the present time,
has not been sufficient to prove burdensome. Of the £2,000, only £400
has materialized, and 9 mejlis (nearly £2) per day goes for salaries of the commission.

"When agents were appointed by the British ambassador to distribute the funds from abroad, it was with some difficulty that permission was secured
to enter the devastated region, where some 5,000 survivors had already gone
to sow their fields with a sort of millet
that matures in a few weeks from the time it is sown, oxen having been generously loaned them by the poor villagers of the Moorish plain. The services of the existing Turkish committee
were offered to distribute these contributions, but finally this point was allowed to be waived, and they were allowed to locate themselves at the village of Semal. They attempted to repair the houses of the Armenians, damaged
during the massacre, but the Turks
would not allow it.

"The general condition of the country
is getting worse. The Christians are having a hard time in harvest. They are in danger of their lives. It is usual
for them to remain in the fields during harvest. Now they dare not. The women usually carry food to the fields
for the workers. Now they are afraid to do so. The other day, about two hours from here, a girl carrying food to the fields for the workmen was set
upon by three young Turks and foully
and brutally treated. A row followed,
and two or three Christians were wounded. At another village, nine hours from here, a band of 30 horsemen
entered the village of Kupri-Keny and
first went through the village in a riotous way and greatly terrified the
people, demanding the girls and brides.
Later they took their rifles and went
firing through the streets of the village.
The son of the priest opened the door
with the idea of inducing them to leave
by giving money. He was shot down."

MILLS ALL RUNNING.

Cleveland Iron Men Report Business Booming.

GREATEST ACTIVITY FOR YEARS.

Enormous Demand For Structural Iron and Electric Street Rails—Plants Running Night and Day—Western Bar Iron Association May Advance Prices.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—A canvass of the more prominent iron dealers in this city shows that the phenomenal boom in the iron market continues in all departments of the trade. The dealers state that there has been no such activity and demand in the market for many years. Pigiron is selling at $17 a ton, and steel billets at $24 a ton, with an advancing tendency. There is an enormous demand for structural iron and electric street rails. The mills are running night and day at their utmost capacity.

The Western Bar Iron association has held a largely attended conference here. Nearly all of the larger manufacturers of the middle and western states were either present or represented. The meeting was held behind closed doors, and the members refused to make public the object of the meeting. It was learned from another source, however, that the chief subject under discussion was a proposition to again advance the price of the product of the barmills, as a result of the boom in the iron market all along the line.

STRIKERS ON THE ALERT.

They Prevent Outsiders From Taking Their Places at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—When the Baackes Wire Nail works passed into the possession of the Consolidated Wire and Steel company and it was shut down for repairs, the 400 employees declared that they would not return to work unless they were paid the prices won by the other wire millmen of Cleveland in the strike. The company has a wage card which applies to all of its nine mills and the rates are lower than those demanded by the men.

The company tried to get 40 men imported from Pennsylvania into the mill, but the strikers were alert and turned out to the number of over 200. Three times the foreman piloted the Pennsylvania men to the gates of the mill and three times the strikers, by gathering around them and talking to them, induced them to turn back. A large squad of police was sent to the mill and the company placed a score of private detectives on guard. The imported workmen finally scattered, many of them declaring they would return home. Serious trouble is apprehended, as the company is determined to start the mill at its own terms.

Bribe to Make Big Improvements.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—It is not probable that the Cleveland headquarters of the Cleveland, Akron and Columbus road will be changed, as the main interests of the road are centered here. Senator Brice's getting control is a climax to a long-cherished scheme to get an eastern outlet for the Pittsburgh, Akron and Western. Large terminals will be established at Akron, with a lake outlet at Cleveland, and the southern part of the line will be used as a feeder.

Lecturer McConnell Falls.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—W. J. McConnell, a temperance lecturer, known for his eloquence in all parts of the country, has been fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse in police court for intoxication. McConnell has for years lapsed into occasional spree, but lately lost all control of himself and is a wreck. He may be sent to the insane asylum instead of the workhouse.

A Blacksmiths' Convention.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—The National Railroad Master Blacksmiths' association is holding a four days convention here with about 50 delegates in attendance, representing all parts of the country. The association was organized at Chicago during the World's fair, being composed of foremen of departments in the blacksmith shops of locomotive and car factories.

THE BOYS IN GRAY.

Letter Carriers Consider Numerous Resolutions at Their Convention.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—The National Association of Letter Carriers is holding its sixth annual convention in the new Bourse building in this city, President C. C. Couden presiding. The committee on credentials reported a representation of 508 out of 528 votes in the convention. The roll was then called, and a flood of resolutions and amendments, all intended to improve the lot of the letter carriers, were offered. Delegate Arkison offered a resolution requesting the committee on legislation to prepare a bill for presentation to congress providing for the increase of salaries of secondclass carriers from $530 to $1,000.

Resolutions were also offered requesting the legislation committee to prepare bills granting each letter carrier a certain sum for uniforms and providing for lighter clothing in summer. A delegate from Washington offered a resolution requesting the same committee to have the eight-hour law administered, so that the eight hours of labor should be performed indefinitely. The committee appointed to secure the erection of a monument in honor of the late Hon. Samuel Sullivan Cox, the letter carriers' friend, reported that the monument stood in Riverside park, New York city, and their work was concluded. The sum of $10,919.12 had been collected, and the expenses were $10,813.12, leaving a balance of $6.

Carlisle Writing to Nebraska Democrats.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Secretary Carlisle is preparing a letter to be read before the Nebraska Democratic convention which will meet in Lincoln tomorrow. The secretary found himself unable to accept the invitation sent him to be present, but will express his views upon the finances in a letter. Ex-Representative M. D. Harter will address the convention on the money question.

A Determined Suicide Successful.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—Edward Andres, the St. Louis engraver who attempted to commit suicide by jumping from a ferryboat into the Delaware river, on Friday night, has died in the Cooper hospital, Camden. After being rescued from the river Andres made a rope out of his underclothing and hanged himself until nearly dead.

His Affairs In Bad Condition.

CHELSEA, Sept. 4.—The affairs of Alfred W. Fitz, son of ex-Mayor Fitz of this city, and treasurer of the Chelsea wire fabric company, who has been missing since Aug. 12, are in a bad condition. The company's factory on Broadway has been closed and expert accountants have been set at work examining the books.

The Eclipse of the Moon.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 4.—The eclipse of the moon was watched very carefully at the observatory in Allegheny last night. The sky was practically free from clouds. The moon remained in the clear sky during the whole period of totality. The total eclipse lasted about one hour and a half.

English Comment on Our Prosperity.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The Chronicle comments upon the increase of emigration to America as pointing to another trade boom there. It is certain, it thinks, that if there is a healthy industrial revival there, there will be no more tariff tinkering one way or another.

An Englishman Discharged.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Charles Churchward, who says he is the son of the general manager of the Bank of England, has been discharged in the criminal court on the charge of having stolen money from Mrs. Ball, his landlady.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

John Martin carries about with him a badly poisoned hand.

Miss Laura Bassing entertained a party of friends at her home on Fourth street.

This is pension day, and the local agents have been busy signing vouchers all day.

Mr. Jackson, a barber whose place of business was in the Ikirt building, has moved to Marietta.

Doctor Wannamaker has Eggermont entered at the races in Youngstown today. He is in the 2:30 class.

John Weitz is now the driver for the express company, having taken the place vacated by Bert Chambers.

A pleasant party saw the eclipse of the moon from the high ground at Spring Grove last night, lunch being served by the ladies.

Reverend Whitehead and Mr. Sheppard are in Pittsburgh today representing the Methodist Protestant church at the conference.

Charles Wilson, of Ravine street, had the misfortune to slip the other day while walking and dislocate his ankle. The damage was repaired today.

Word from Mount Pisgah this morning says that D. J. Smith is improving, and with careful nursing will soon be as well as ever, although he is not yet considered entirely out of danger.

The Wellsville Union claims that a young railroad clerk from that place was ejected from the veranda of a Liverpool residence the other night when calling on a young woman, by her father.

The Wheeling races attracted a number of people from this vicinity this morning. The track on the island has become one of the best in the country, and the entries are as interesting as ever.

A reporter learned this morning that the bridge company would take some important action this week, and while it might not be made public, the exact time of commencing work would be decided upon.

John Staley, who is interested in a flower pot pottery at Spencer, Ind., is in town, visiting at the home of his mother on Lincoln avenue. He is accompanied by his family, and may make this city his home.

A woman held forth in the Diamond last evening in the absence of the regulation leaders of the rollers, and proved by her words that she can abuse the preachers and the churches almost as well as the principal speakers.

The pastures and fields of this section look so well these days that they attract general attention. The grass is as green as in early spring, and farmers feel they have some compensation for the small field of hay in the summer.

The committee of Trades council having in charge the Labor Day celebration held a meeting last evening, and audited the accounts. The receipts were large enough to pay the expenses of the day, and the committee will be able to make a creditable showing at the meeting of the council tonight.

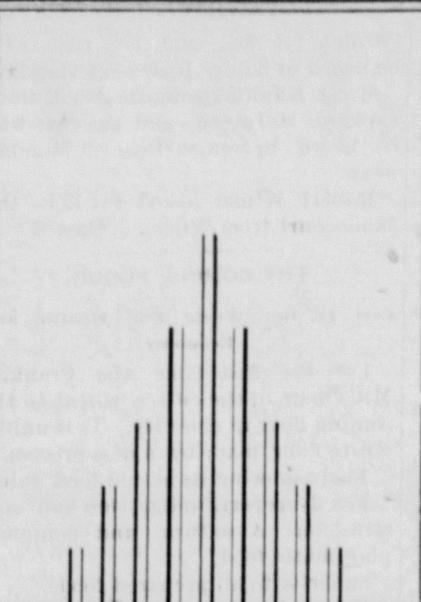

As the teachers and scholars quartered in the new school building become better acquainted with the conveniences of the structure, they speak its praises in glowing terms. It is so much of an improvement over the old structure and the rooms they have occupied for two years that there is no comparison.

The East Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church meets in Canton next week, and unusual interest is shown in its sessions, as the question of doing away with the time limit is being discussed at all the meetings of Methodist ministers at present, and will likely be given an airing in Canton.

The family of Mrs. R. L. Herbert moved from the camp ground to their residence on Seventh street today and Ted Brooks and wife will move tomorrow into the Golding block, Fifth street. This will leave but two families on the ground, and by the middle of next week the camp will be entirely deserted, after one of the most enjoyable years ever known in the history of the camp ground.

Hon. David Boyce returned last night from Alliance and brought with him the little daughters of Mrs. Heckathorn who have been inmates of the Fairmont home. The mother has been supporting them at the home by working in this city, and the children have received the best of care, but she reached the conclusion that she could better support them here, and they were brought home.

Manager Frank Swaney, of the telephone company, was in industry yesterday superintending the placing of a long distance telephone station. The improvement is the result of agitation on the part of rivermen who will have their boats tie up there after the dam is completed. The company are doing their best to occupy the territory adjacent to the main line, and will soon have a net work of wires over this section.

Caution about the Use and Selection of Spectacles

"Persons having normal vision will be able to read this notice at a distance of 14 inches from the eye with ease and comfort. Also will be able to read with each eye separately. If unable to do so your eyes are defective and should have immediate attention. When the eye becomes tired from reading, sewing, or if the letters look blurred and run together, it is a sure indication that the vision is defective. The injured eye in the long run will be of no equal facility and have imperfectly formed surfaces. Continued use of these eyes will result in positive injury from the constant strain upon the muscles of accommodation to supply the defect in the eye."

OUR COMPANY WAS INSPECTED

The Boys Looked Their Best, and Received Many Compliments—Newark Has Pretty Girls—All Having a Good Time. Fun in Camp Howe.

CAMP HOWE, Sept. 3.—If any of the officers and men of the Eighth ever doubted the wisdom of a camp in September they have changed their minds to think it one of the nicest institutions on the list for the weather is fine, the grounds could not look better, and every man in camp is as happy as a big sandowner.

Company E is in the social and all other kinds of swim with any of them, and the boys are having a big time. The had to attend services on Sunday when the chaplain gave them some excellent advice on their duty to themselves and to their neighbors. The Liverpool boys listened attentively, and behaved themselves so well that members of other companies who have always looked on Company E as the wildest of the Eighth, opened their eyes in astonishment. After services there was pleasure in camp for the day, groups of young soldiers entertaining each other and the good people of Newark who came out to see how the boys behaved. Monday was one of pleasure, and with Tuesday came hard work. Company E was called into action, and the way the boys did their work was enough to bring smiles to the hardest old veteran in the world, so well did they perform the task. When called up for inspection the company fairly shone. Every man's face was as clean as the cheap soap and rough towels provided by the state could make it, and every piece of metal had on its best appearance. There was a good line, too, and from a military standpoint Captain Supplee and his men well deserved every commendation they received. Immediately after inspection the company went on duty, and there it remained until Wednesday morning when the young soldiers were allowed to own themselves as they call it.

When Colonel Gyger looked over the boys today he smiled. It was good for the boys that he did smile for they had done their best. He smiled because he was pleased to see them look so nice and because the dazzling white of the new canteens had caught his eye. They are beauties, and he likes the idea so well that he thinks of recommending them for the entire regiment. In his mind they are the right thing, and the boys felt like giving the grizzled old veteran a cheer or two as they heard him praise the canteens and the town from which they came.

All the lads are well, that is bodily well, but the hearts of some are sore. The Newark girl is the cause, and a pretty cause she is. Several thousand of her have called at camp, and the youth with the uniform seems to be her especial delight. She loves to have him talk nonsense, and uses her eyes so that many susceptible soldiers have laid on their hard beds filled with visions of her, and wakened on the morrow to see her walking with some other soldier, and forgetting that she ever saw the first love. Liverpool boys are not accustomed to this tramping on their hearts, and that is why they are sad.

The base ball reputation of Liverpool arrived in camp with the boys, and a game was played with Company B, of Akron. Of course Liverpool won, and now the players think they can beat anything in camp. It was more than amusing to see some of the boys make grand stand plays for the sole benefit of the ladies.

BY A FUNERAL.

Motormen Failed To Obey the Wellsville Law.

Another feature of the Wellsville law was made known to employees of the street railway today when it was stated that Motormen Stodgill and Hale were to be arrested for running along the street when a funeral was passing. The men were on the cars, and stopped when the funeral crossed the track, but proceeded to pass it as it moved along the street. Warrants have been issued, but an effort is being made to settle the cases.

The Play.

A fair sized audience witnessed C. W. Warner's company of players last night at the opera house in "Flossie, the Pet of the Camp." White and Harris in their specialties scored another hit. Tonight that highly sensational comedy drama, "A Life for Life," full of startling climaxes and funny situations. Popular prices, 10, 20, 30 cents.

Seeking to Collect.

E. K. Chamberlain this morning brought suit in the court of Squire Rose against Gertrude Barrett seeking to recover $4.

Geo. W. Huston today sued T. W.

ON THE ROOF.

A Fourth Street Grocer Has Trouble With Burglars.

When Edward Gink, a Fourth street grocer, was hard at work in the basement last night near midnight he heard some one prowling about the store, but upon investigating could find no one. He thought they were on the roof, but what they were doing there was more than he could imagine. This is not the first time Gink has been bothered in this way, and he thinks some one is attempting to burglarize his place.

—Mrs. Forbes and daughter Miss Bessie, of Alliance, left this morning for a visit with Steubenville friends after a short visit in this city, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cartwright.

Purchased Potts' Store.

The drug store of T. L. Potts was sold this afternoon to a Leontonia party, consideration private. Charles Larkins and John O'Hanlon will remain in the store in their present positions.

WHAT A GOOD KNIFE COSTS.

More Men Spend $3 For a Pocketknife Than Less Than That Amount.

"More men pay $3 and upward for a pocketknife than less. That may not be the experience of all cutlery dealers, but that's the kind of trade we cater to," said a knife expert from behind the counter of a store on one of the most frequented of downtown streets. "Spaniards spend the most money for knives," he continued. "Spaniards who come here are very fastidious in the matter of cutlery anyway. Where an American family in the same circumstances will be content with the ordinary plated tableware, costing $4 or $4.50 a dozen, a Spaniard will have nothing but the finest steel with ivory handles, at $18 and over. The average business man spends usually about $3 for a four-bladed knife. If he loses a knife often, as many men do, he comes down to $2, then to $1. Most expensive knives are bought for presents. Four dollars buys an excellent gift. Last season many knives were given for prizes at such parties. Such knives were usually the fancy ones, with half a dozen blades or attachments. That big 7 inch knife there is a hunter's knife. It costs $4.

"A man who buys that will take it to the Adirondacks, and when he leaves there present it to his guide. We have one customer who buys three of those knives every year. He gives them to his guides, he says. We sell nearly 150 of them every year. This heavy one here with a big steel hook is a horseman's knife. It costs $7. The hook is used for digging out a stone from the horse's hoof. It has, as you see, other attachments, such as a corkscrew, screwdriver, nut cracker, awl, gimlet and a score of things for other useful or useless purposes, according to the point of view. We sell many of them, probably more than any other one kind. Sailors usually buy pretty good knives. They and Italians go in for big, sharp knives that should be handy in case of defense. Pretty nearly every trade has a peculiar knife. That's one reason why a well equipped cutlery shop makes such a formidable display. Knives cost all the way from 80 cents to $25. We don't sell many at the latter price."—New York Press

AS THE ROMANS SAW IT.

A Classic Performance in the Old Theater at Orange.

Of scenery, in the ordinary sense of the word, there was none at all. What we saw was the real thing. In the opening scene of "Edipus," the king, coming forward through the royal portal and across the raised platform in the rear of the stage, did literally "enter from the palace" and did "descend the palace steps" to the "public place" where Creon and the priests awaited him. It was a direct reversal of the ordinary effect in the ordinary theater, where the play loses in realism because a current of necessarily appreciated but purposely rejected antagonistic fact underpins the conventional illusion and compels us to perceive that the palace is but painted canvas, and even on the largest stage only four or five times as high as the prince. The palace at Orange, towering up as though it would touch the very heavens and obviously of veritable stone, was a most peremptory reality.

The fortuitous accessory of the trees growing close beside the stage added to the outdoor effect still another very vivid touch of realism, and this was heightened by the swaying of the branches, and by the gracious motion of the draperies, under the fitful pressure of the strong gusts of wind. Indeed the mistral took a very telling part in the performance. Players less perfect in their art would have been disconcerted by it, but these of the Comedie Francaise were quick to perceive and to utilize its artistic possibilities. In the very midst of the solemn denunciation of Edipus by Tiresias, the long white beard of the blind prophet suddenly was blown upward so that his face was hidden and his utterance choked by it, and the momentary pause, while he raised his hand slowly, and calmly freed his face from this chance covering, made a dramatic break in his discourse, and added to it a naturalness which vividly intensified its solemn import. In like manner the final entry of Edipus, coming from the palace after blinding himself, was made thrillingly real. For a moment, as he came upon the stage, the horror which he had wrought upon himself—his ghastly eyesockets, his blood stained face—was visible, and then a gust of wind lifted his mantle and flung it about his head so that all was concealed, and an exquisite pity for him was aroused—while he struggled painfully to rid himself of the incumbrance—by the imposition of this petty annoyance upon his mortal agony of body and of soul.

When a cyclist desires to go upon a tour of several days' duration, he should train a little; take a little spin every day, increasing the distance gradually. At the end of a few days he is sufficiently trained and can start without fear.

Taylor, who rejoices in the sobriquet of Old Boss, clipped four hours off of the record from Detroit to Chicago, riding the distance in 30 hours. Much of this road lies through a sandy country and is not the pleasantest riding in the world.

QUEER LANGUAGE.

The "Camphor Tongue" of a Wild but Inoffensive Race.

One of the queerest languages in the world, used for the queerest purposes, is the "camphor language" of Johore, a country of the Malay peninsula. It has lately been studied and reported upon by Mr. Lake, an English engineer in the service of the sultan of Johore. This language is called the "Pantang Kapor," or camphor language, and is used by the natives and all others who are engaged in gathering the product of the Malayan camphor tree and only at that time. If they used either of the languages of the region, the Malay or the aboriginal Jakun, the natives believe that they could not obtain any camphor, and for a most curious reason. The camphor tree, Dryobalanops camphora, grows abundantly in certain parts of the peninsula, but only occasionally contains camphor crystals. The camphor is not the same as that obtained from the camphor laurel of Formosa and Japan, which is the source of the ordinary camphor of commerce. It is a sort of highly prized by the Chinese in the embalming of their dead, in incense and in medicine, and the gum brings much more than the common camphor.

The Malaysians and other Johore natives believe that each species of tree has a spirit or divinity that presides over its affairs. The spirit of the camphor tree is known by the name of Bisan—literally "a woman." Her resting place is near the trees, and when at night a peculiar noise is heard in the woods, resembling that of a cicada, the Bisan is believed to be singing, and camphor will surely be found in the neighborhood. But the spirit of the camphor tree seems to be jealous of the precious gum and must be propitiated, and if she knows that hunters are in quest of it she will endeavor to turn their steps aside. So it is necessary to speak in a tongue which she does not understand. For this purpose the "camphor language" has been invented. It consists of a mixture of Jakun and Malay words, but these are curiously altered and reversed, and the natives positively believe that the divinity of the camphor tree is completely confused. The Jakuns who hunt the camphor are one of the wildest of people, but inoffensive. They live together with monkeys, dogs, cats, innumerable fowls and perhaps a tame hornbill in perfect harmony under movable leaf shelters built on poles in the woods.—Boston Traveller.

The Invincible Armada.

The invincible armada was a famous naval expedition sent by Philip II of Spain against England in 1588. It consisted of 130 vessels, 2,430 great guns, 4,575 quintals of powder, nearly 30,000 soldiers, above 8,000 sailors and more than 2,000 volunteers. It arrived in the English channel on July 19 and was defeated the next day by Admiral Howard, who was seconded by Drake, Hawkins and Frobiisher. Eight fire ships having been sent into the Spanish fleet, they bore off in great disorder. Profiting by the panic, the English fell upon them and captured or destroyed a number of their ships, and Admiral Howard maintained a running fight from July 21 to July 27, with such effect that the Spanish commander, despairing of success, resolved to return home, and as escape through the English channel was prevented by contrary winds he undertook to sail around the Orkneys, but the vessels which still remained to him were dispersed by storms or shipwrecked among the rocks and shallows on different parts of the Scottish and Irish coast, and upward of 5,000 men were drowned, killed or taken prisoners. Of the whole armada 53 ships only returned to Spain, and these in a wretched condition. The English lost but one ship.—Brooklyn Eagle.

G. A. R. DAYLIGHT SPECIAL

To National Encampment at Louisville Over Pennsylvania Lines.

On Monday, Sept. 9, G. A. R. veterans and friends from West Virginia, Southwestern Pennsylvania, Southwestern Ohio will go to the national encampment over the Pennsylvania lines, that route having been selected by a number of posts. Arrangements have been made for special trains to run through to Louisville by daylight, reaching there in time for supper on Monday. The organizations going on the specials will include: James A. Garfield of the G. A. R. of Wheeling; Spangler post, of Belleair; Brannan post, of Bridgeport; Thornburn post, of Martins Ferry; E. M. Stanton post, of Steubenville; General Lyon post, of East Liverpool; Henry Cope post, of Wellsburg; G. W. Shuster post, of Toronto; J. S. McCready post, of Cadiz; Welch post, of Uhrichsville; and Dennison; Minerva post, of Minerva; Sandy Valley post, of Waynesburg; Andrew Crawford post, of New Philadelphia; John H. Carr post, of Port Washington; R. M. Lyon post, of Bowerston. The specials will concentrate on the Pan Handle at Steubenville, Newcomerstown and Cadiz junction, excursionists being carried from their starting points without change. Columbus will be reached at 11 a. m., from which point the specials will run through to Louisville on fast schedule without making any regular stops, going via Xenia, Dayton and Indianapolis. Leaving time from East Liverpool will be 5:30 a. m., central time, round trip $8. Excursion tickets at that rate will also be sold for regular trains over the Pennsylvania lines Sept. 8, 9, 10 and 11. All tickets will be good returning until Oct. 5, inclusive. A cordial invitation is extended to persons wishing to make an enjoyable trip to the National encampment to join the daylight special excursion on Sept. 9. The party will be a congenial one, and will be chaperoned by Mr. Fred B. Sankey, traveling passenger agent, who will satisfactorily look after the comforts of all during the entire trip. Tickets can be obtained from Ticket Agent Adam Hill, East Liverpool, O., who will answer inquiries for further information on the subject.

Rooted the Bull.

A lumberman attached to John Crane's camp, up beyond the Katahdin Iron works in Maine, was tramping across to a pond late one November evening when he ran upon a bull moose.

The lumberman had no rifle, so he yelled and waved his arms, expecting that the broad antlered bull would dash fear stricken down the mountain. But it didn't. It rushed for the lumberman. He dodged about a tree and dropped his ax. For ten minutes he dodged, half scared to death. Then he climbed the tree.

The bull butted the tree with its antlers until it swayed to and fro, and then walked away a few yards and rested. The lumberman yelled some more. When he could yell no longer, he set his wits to work. Just above him was a dead limb. He broke it off, and as the bull advanced again he set the wood afire and dropped it on the bull's back. With a bellow it ran down the mountain. The half frozen lumberman made a line for camp.—New York World.

SHIELDED HER BABY

Mrs. Mackey Assaulted at Mrs. Coulson's Place.

CONCUSSION OF THE BRAIN

She Went for Her Husband, and With Her Child in Her Arms Struck Him in the Face—A Row Followed in Which Mrs. Mackey Was Brutally Beaten, and Her Condition Is Dangerous—Mrs. Coulson Behind the Bars.

The ill feeling that has existed for some time between Mrs. Coulson, the saloonist who resides on the Horn switch, and Mrs. Mackey, whose place of business is at the junction of Broadway and East Market street, broke out afresh last night and Mrs. Mackey is lying at her home in Huston addition today with her face looking as though it passed through a threshing machine, and Mayor Gilbert is ready to try Mrs. Coulson for doing the deed.

Patrolman McMillen and Officer Meanor were standing in the patrol station at eight o'clock last night when an excited boy ran in the door and gave utterance to the statement between gasps that a woman had been killed at Mrs. Coulson's on the switch. The officers lost no time in reaching the place, but found it deserted except by the crowd. Mrs. Coulson had gone over the hill toward Seventh street and Mrs. Mackey had staggered up the Horn switch. The officers at once followed up the track, and as they reached the ice plant saw a woman stagger, and then fall heavily. She was accompanied by Joseph Riley, who supported her as well as possible, and when the officers arrived they carried her toward the Dresden pottery where they intended sending for a carriage; but in the meantime the patrol had been called, and the woman was quickly taken to the office of Doctor Taylor, on East Market street, where it was found that she was badly hurt. The report was spread over town that a woman had been killed, and a great crowd gathered. Mrs. Mackey was unconscious for the best part of an hour, but eventually regained her senses and was taken home, the crowd accompanying the patrol. Excitement ran high for a time, but the crowd gradually became quiet as the story was made known.

According to the story told by Mrs. Mackey to a NEWS REVIEW reporter as she lay in bed this morning, her head covered with bandages and a look of pain on her face, she had heard her husband was at Coulson's and determined to go after him. "It was between 7 and 8 o'clock," said the suffering woman, "that I took my 18-months-old baby in my arms and started for the place. I knew he was there, and when I walked in the room he was sitting near the piano. We only had a few words, but he spoke so that I could not stand it and I slapped him across the face with the back of my hand. That made him mad, and he pushed me against the door. Clinging my baby tightly to my breast I stood just outside the door, and demanded of Mrs. Coulson why she had taken my husband from his own home and me. She did not answer, but asked me to come in, and I told her I had never been in a brothel, and I wasn't going to start now. I had been sick with sore throat during the day, and had tied a silk handkerchief around my neck when I started from home. Mrs. Coulson and her daughter Lil grabbed me by the throat, and with all their force pulled me into the room. I knew that Lil hit me with her fist in the face, but that's all. I did not try to protect myself, but did what I could to keep them from hitting the baby. The blows fairly rained on my head, but I don't remember anything about it. This thing has been going on for a year, and I have done everything to keep my husband at home. He had a good job, and we were doing well, but he didn't like to stay at home. So we got the saloon, and I stayed there in the day while he was there at night. But it didn't do any good, and this is what it has come to," and the woman sank back on the pillow weak from the exertion of talking. She is a comely woman, with sandy hair and light complexion, and as she told of how her husband had wronged her, tears came to her eyes, and a sob choked in her throat. She had some trouble with Mrs. Coulson on another occasion on Washington street, and at that time there was a declaration that something serious would grow out of it if the man Mackey continued to ignore his wife.

There are several stories about the fight and it was hard to locate anyone who had seen it. One story says that Mackey himself struck his wife, and the authorities incline to this belief, thinking the poor woman will shield her husband to the last. These facts, however, can only be brought out at the hearing, and the police are expressing no opinion. Another trouble is to locate the instrument with which the crime was committed. One story has it that the blows were struck with a piece of ball bat kept about the place for the purpose of preserving order, and others have it that a beer mallet was used. The doctor knows the wounds were inflicted by a blunt instrument, but of course is unable to tell what sort of a thing it was.

Mrs. Coulson positively declares that Mrs. Mackey was not hurt at her place. She says that while in the house Mrs. Mackey was not hurt, but if injured at all must have been assaulted after she left the place. Mrs. Coulson was arrested by Officers Whan, Meanor and Jennings, and is in jail awaiting the result of Mrs. Mackey's injuries.

THE INJURIES.

Mrs. Mackey Suffers from Concussion of the Brain.

When Doctor Taylor examined Mrs. Mackey he found that she was suffering from concussion of the brain and was in a dangerous condition. A blow on the right side of the head near the temple had caused the greatest damage, and another on the left cheek had caused a great deal of swelling and discoloration. A large bruise on the left shoulder showed where a blow aimed at the head had missed its mark. The woman's face was covered with blood, but this came from a cut on the lip and amounts to almost nothing. If a clot should form Mrs. Mackey will die. Of that there is no question in the mind of the physician, and he is doing all in his power to prevent it. The woman has been unconscious several times during the day, and seems to suffer much. It will require several days for the physicians to tell whether she will live, but the chances this afternoon are, if anything, against it. The blows were struck by a strong arm, and it is a wonder the woman was not killed at once.

YORK AND IRONS

Suggested as Attractions for the Lisbon Fair.

A prominent wheelman suggests that the Lisbon boys can have all the racing with Liverpool they want provided they agree to terms that are fair. Irons will be sent against Steele or any man they may see fit to select in the county, and York will be matched to ride against any rider they have in view. There is Liverpool money to back every word of what they say.

Irons and Trappe went to Youngstown last night, where they are entered in the races today, along with over 250 other riders. Hale was sore after his fall on Monday, and decided to stay out.

The Shamrocks and the Young Men's Christian association will play ball on the West End grounds next Monday afternoon. Each team has a game to its credit, and a tie game, called in the tenth inning because of darkness, makes up the list. The best men of each club will be selected for the game.

WILLIAM E. JAMES DEAD.

The Janitor of the First Presbyterian Church Passed Away.

William E. James, for eight years a resident of this city, seven of which were consumed while he was engaged as janitor of the First Presbyterian church, died at his home on Third street last night. Mr. James had been ill for years, suffering from asthma, but has been confined to his room for six weeks. He was born in Wales, but came to this country many years ago. His loving wife, three sons and five daughters survive him, and there is sorrow in that home today, because William James was a man among men in his family. He was 57 years old. Doctor Lee was notified by wire this morning, and the funeral will take place tomorrow, with interment in Riverview.

THE LISBON LINE.

Telephone Officials are Getting Ready to Build.

Poles are being unloaded at Wellsville for the new telephone line, soon to be built to Lisbon, and the company's officials are preparing to have the line built at once. The new line will be made up of three metallic circuits, will be two miles shorter, and promises a much better service for Liverpool, though we will have to send our words through Wellsville before they get to the county seat.

There are enough lines between this city and Wellsville to take care of all the business.

HIGH GOES OLD GLORY

The Flag Raising to be a Notable Event.

HOW THE PARADE WILL MARCH

All the Patriotic Societies Will Be in Line, and All the People Are Asked to Join in the Flag Raising—What Arrangements Have Been Made For the Event.

All the arrangements for the raising of Old Glory over the Central school building have been made, and the patriotic societies will on Friday have the biggest day they have ever known in the city.

The arrangements include a program that will be carried out to the letter, and a parade that will march as the powers have decided. The committees have consumed several weeks in arranging their affairs, and it has been no easy task, but that is all done now and they are ready for success to crown their every effort. The program for the exercises at the building when the flag will be raised is as follows:

Master of Ceremonies..... Prof. Sanor
Music.....by Manley's Band
Prayer.....by Rev. Huston
Dedication address.....by Prof. Geo. J. Luckey
Response.....by Col. H. E. Hill
Music.....by Haines Military Band
Presentation of Flag.....by Hon. P. C. Young
Accepting of Flag for Board of Education.....by Rev. J. C. Taggart
Music.....by Manley's Band
Address.....by P. A. Shanor
National V. Councilor Jr. O. U. A. M.
Address.....by Dr. A. E. Cramer, P. O. S. of A.
Address.....by Dr. Spencer,
State Councilor Jr. O. U. A. M.
Address.....by L. A. Pierce,
State V. Councilor Jr. O. U. A. M.
Benediction.....by Rev. O'Mara
Flag Raising.....
Music—"Star Spangled Banner".....

Before the above will be passed through the parade will march through the streets after having formed on Broadway with right resting on Fifth. The line of march will be to Jefferson, to Sixth, to the Diamond, to Market, to Fourth, to Union, and the procession will start at one o'clock in this order:

Chief Marshal Willis Davidson
Mounted aides
Squad of police
Manley's band
General Lyon Post
Sons of Veterans
Visiting councils O. U. A. M.
Gen. George H. Thomas council
Drum corps
Visiting camps P. O. S. of A.
Washington camp
Haynes' band
Visiting councils Jr. O. U. A. M.
Pride of the East council
Citizens' club
Speakers and guests
Board of education
City officials
Fire department.

The speakers from a distance will all be here, and among them are some of the most eloquent young men of this part of the world. Professor Luckey may not be able to reach here before the afternoon train, but the program has been arranged so there will be no delay. The societies interested invite everyone to turn out with them, and make this flag raising an event in the history of the city. They have done their part in preparing for the ceremonies, and ask the people to join them in thus floating the emblem of liberty over its most desirable production.

The committee requests that all business houses and factories close their doors on Friday at noon in order that every one will be given an opportunity to attend the exercises. The final meeting of the committee will be held this evening.

NEXT YEAR

The Farmers Will Parade on Labor Day.

Had the farmers of St. Clair township known that the Labor Day parade would have been delayed until nine o'clock, a delegation of 50, mounted on the best horses they owned, would have been in line. They discussed the project in its every phase, and at length decided that it would not do for them to be late, and it would be impossible for them to appear in town at eight o'clock, the hour at which the parade was advertised to start. However, they will be in line next year if all goes well, winding up the procession and carrying a banner with the words "The farmer feeds them all." They promise 100 mounted men.

IN THE SHADOW.

The Eclipse of the Moon Was Pretty Last Night.

The moon looked its prettiest last night, and the eclipse was seen by many people in the city. Not a cloud obscured the sky, and the event was seen by all who took the time from their busy sleep. At no time during the hour when the shadow covered the face of the satellite did the sight seem anything but the most beautiful scene the firmament has given the dwellers of earth in this generation. All the conditions were perfect, and the beautiful light that followed the eclipse was all that could be asked. Several hundred people in the city saw the eclipse, and were well repaid for the late hours they were compelled to keep.

YOUTHFUL SMOKERS.

Cigarettes Were Plentiful at Central Building.

As the youngsters came tearing out of central school building yesterday afternoon, a dozen or more were seen to draw cigarettes from their pockets, and striking matches as close to the building as the alley walked leisurely away, puffing as proudly as though their trousers were long and their collars were high. One youth not over ten years of age passed a box around to his companions, who helped themselves, except one youngster who refused but scraped a handful of "scraps" out of his coat pocket and took a chew. The scene was witnessed by two residents, who thought there was a law prohibiting the sale of tobacco to children.

IN FULL BLOOM.

A West End Apple Tree Is Working Double Time.

Mark Douglass, the genial superintendent of the Specialty, has an apple tree at his residence on Denver street which is attracting a great deal of attention because it is in full bloom. The tree is young, and Mark argues that its youth and inexperience may be the cause of its condition, but he can not deny that it was covered with blossoms early in the spring and bore a creditable crop of fruit. The apples were as palatable as ordinary apples, and when the crop was ripe the blossoms came again. They were noticed for the first time yesterday morning, and by evening there were dozens of bouquets on the little tree.

IT MUST BE

Pittsburg Coal Men Interested in the Cincinnati Convention.

At a well attended meeting of the coal exchange held in Pittsburg yesterday, it was decided that the body be represented at the river convention in Cincinnati, and that it do all within its power to have the Ohio slackwatered its entire length. The movement to improve our big stream is receiving more attention in Pittsburg just now than at any time in the past, and prominent rivermen are being quoted every day as favoring the movement. Now that Cincinnati and some other river towns are interested in the prospects for a happy termination of the plan grow brighter every month.

A REPUBLICAN CLUB.

Young Members of the Party Want One Organized.

A movement is on foot having for its object the organization of a Republican club in the city, and the projectors are more than anxious to have success crown their efforts when the campaign is yet young. The plan has not yet taken definite form, but it is generally conceded among the young men who are interested that the organization should be permanent, and should be attached to the League of Republican clubs, as was the Ceramic club of a few years ago. A meeting may be called for the purpose of organization next week.

TO A HIGHER COURT.

The Rinehart Case Not To Be Settled Here.

The case of McCain against Rinehart because vehicles are allowed to stand in the street was argued before Mayor Gilbert yesterday afternoon, and cost the defendant $20.55, a fine of $1 and costs. The amount was paid under protest, and the case will be settled in common pleas next term. The lawyer for the defense argued that the property owner had a right to occupy one-half of the street, but Attorney Brookes took the wind out of his sails by asking what the public would do if the other property owner decided to take his half at the same time.

Died This Morning.

The little child of Otto Pohner died at the family residence on May street this morning, and will be buried tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in Riverview.

Stricken With Paralysis.

R. F. Young, for several years a grocer on the Calcutta road, was stricken by paralysis this morning, and is in a critical condition this afternoon.

TALE OF THREE TRAMPS

How a Few Dollars Passed Among Them.

IT STARTED IN WELLSVILLE

Moved to Liverpool, and Eventually Traveled Toward Pittsburg—The Police Were Brought Into the Plan, But Dropped It in a Hurry When They Saw the Game.

A party of tramps were taken from a train in Wellsville the other night because the railroad company object to carrying passengers without each one paying his fare, and the prisoners were turned over to the authorities for punishment. Although Wellsville is a railroad town and the people are largely employed by the Cleveland & Pittsburg, they do not like to pay for punishing culprits of this kind, and they have a rule which works very well. If a man has money they lock him up until he pays the fine imposed, and if he has none they turn him loose to work on the streets or run away just as he sees fit.

Now one of these tramps happened to have $8, and the authorities locked him up while his friends were sent out to work. He knew about the Wellsville system, and with what he believed was native shrewdness gave one of the tramps his money in the belief that he was honest enough to wait for him on the outside, for he knew he would be released when it was found that his dollars had disappeared. But he counted without having first tested the integrity of his friend, for no sooner was that individual sent out with pick and shovel than he dropped these implements of honest toil and started for Liverpool. Forgetting all about the poor fellow in jail, he made friends with another tramp and to him confided the story of the money. This individual chanced to be smart, and he at once began to tell his new found friend what powers he possessed as a billiard player. He entranced him with the stories, and carried his hearer through many a game where impossible shots and difficult feats made great and glorious victories. So long a time did these tales require in narration that the pair had overtaken two other tramps known to the billiardist, and the quartet had journeyed on to the city. At length the man who talked so much of his playing took the chap with the money into a convenient doorway, and imparted the fact that he would like to borrow "de stuff" for a few minutes, and if he would lend him the amount all would derive some benefit from it. He proposed to jingle it in his pocket as he entered a billiard hall, play a game or two, beat the proprietor if possible, and then secure a position and rope in the devotees of the sport. The plan seemed reasonable to the man of money, particularly as he was to be paid back and in addition receive liberal interest for the few hours it was to be out of his pocket. He handed over the silver, his friend entered the billiard hall, and he waited. For the best part of the day he lingered on the outside, and becoming impatient he entered the hall. No friend was there nor had any one seen him around, and filled with rage he inquired for city hall, and reported the loss to the police. They by close questioning compelled him to tell the story as a whole, and seeing that it was only taking money from a thief, they told him he would have to recover it himself. Disappointed and swearing under his breath, but with a far too wholesome regard of the law to swear aloud, he wandered to the passenger station, and inquired for his companions. As luck would have it some one had seen them go up the track, and word was at once sent to the police, but not the officers who had turned the man away. Thinking the case a big one, and seeing glory in an arrest of this kind, they hastened to Thompson's pottery, and arrested three men, the booster and the pair who had joined them on the way. They were taken to city hall where they were examined, and the same story came out, but nothing could be done. There was the word of three against one, and the officers who had turned the first vagabond away had a hearty laugh at the expense of the other police. And now they won't tell the names of the blue coated boys who had a long walk for nothing, but smile when they talk of it just the same. All the tramps left town together and have doubtless spent so much of the money that there will be little left for the confiding one when he is released from the Wellsville jail.

OUR COMPANY WAS INSPECTED

The Boys Looked Their Best, and Received Many Compliments—Newark Has Pretty Girls—All Having a Good Time. Fun in Camp Howe.

CAMP HOWE, Sept. 3.—If any of the officers and men of the Eighth ever doubted the wisdom of a camp in September they have changed their minds to think it one of the nicest institutions on the list for the weather is fine, the grounds could not look better, and every man in camp is as happy as a big sunflower.

Company E is in the social and all other kinds of swim with any of them, and the boys are having a big time. The had to attend services on Sunday when the chaplain gave them some excellent advice on their duty to themselves and to their neighbors. The Liverpool boys listened attentively, and behaved themselves so well that members of other companies who have always looked on Company E as the wildest of the Eighth, opened their eyes in astonishment. After services there was pleasure in camp for the day, groups of young soldiers entertaining each other and the good people of Newark who came out to see how the boys behaved. Monday was one of pleasure, and with Tuesday came hard work. Company E was called into action, and the way the boys did their work was enough to bring smiles to the hardest old veteran in the world, so well did they perform the task. When called up for inspection the company fairly shined. Every man's face was as clean as the cheap soap and rough towels provided by the state could make it, and every piece of metal had on its best appearance. There was a good line, too, and from a military standpoint Captain Supplee and his men well deserved every commendation they received. Immediately after inspection the company went on duty, and there it remained until Wednesday morning when the young soldiers were allowed to own themselves as they called it.

When Colonel Gyger looked over the boys today he smiled. It was good for the boys that he did smile for they had done their best. He smiled because he was pleased to see them look so nice and because the dazzling white of the new canteens had caught his eye. They are beautiful, and he likes the idea so well that he thinks of recommending them for the entire regiment. In his mind they are the right thing, and the boys felt like giving the grizzled old veteran a cheer or two as they heard him praise the canteens and the town from which they come.

All the lads are well, that is bodily well, but the hearts of some are sore. The Newark girl is the cause, and a pretty cause she is. Several thousand of her have called at camp, and the youth with the uniform seems to have her special delight. She loves to have him talk nonsense, and uses her eyes so that many susceptible soldiers have laid on their hard beds filled with visions of her, and wakened on the morrow to see her walking with some other soldier, and forgetting that she ever saw the first love. Liverpool boys are not accustomed to this trampling on their hearts, and that is why they are sad.

The base ball reputation of Liverpool arrived in camp with the boys, and a game was played with Company B, of Akron. Of course Liverpool won, and now the players think they can beat anything in camp. It was more than amusing to see some of the boys make grand stand plays for the sole benefit of the ladies.

BY A FUNERAL.
Motormen Failed To Obey the Wellsville Law.

Another feature of the Wellsville law was made known to employees of the street railway today when it was stated that Motormen Stodgill and Hale were to be arrested for running along the street when a funeral was passing. The men were on the cars, and stopped when the funeral crossed the track, but proceeded to pass it as it moved along the street. Warrants have been issued, but an effort is being made to settle the cases.

WHAT A GOOD KNIFE COSTS.

More Men Spend $3 For a Pocketknife Than Less That Amount.

"More men pay $3 and upward for a pocketknife than less. That may not be the experience of all cutlery dealers, but that's the kind of trade we cater to," said a knife expert from behind the counter of a store on one of the most frequented of downtown streets. "Spaniards spend the most money for knives," he continued. "Spaniards who come here are very fastidious in the matter of cutlery anyway. Where an American family in the same circumstances will be content with the ordinary plated tableware, costing $4 or $4.50 a dozen, a Spaniard will have nothing but the finest steel with ivory handles, at $18 and over. The average business man spends usually about $3 for a four-bladed knife. If he loses a knife often, as many men do, he comes down to $2, then to $1. Most expensive knives are bought for presents. Four dollars buys an excellent gift. Last season many knives were given for prizes at such parties. Such knives were usually the fancy ones, with half a dozen blades or attachments. That big 7 inch blade there is a hunter's knife. It costs $4.

"A man who buys that will take it to the Adirondacks, and when he leaves there present it to his guide. We have one customer who buys three of those knives every year. He gives them to his guides, he says. We sell nearly 150 of them every year. This heavy one here with a big steel hook is a horseman's knife. It costs $7. The hook is used for digging out a stone from the horse's hoof. It has, as you see, other attachments, such as a corkscrew, screwdriver, nut cracker, awl, gimlet and a score of things for other useful or useless purposes, according to the point of view. We sell many of them, probably more than any other one kind. Sailors usually buy pretty good knives. They and Italians go in for big, sharp knives that should be handy in case of defense. Pretty nearly every trade has a peculiar knife. That's one reason why a well equipped cutlery shop makes such a formidable display. Knives cost all the way from 50 cents to $25. We don't sell many at the latter price."—New York Press

AS THE ROMANS SAW IT.

A Classic Performance in the Old Theater at Orange.

Of scenery, in the ordinary sense of the word, there was none at all. What we saw was the real thing. In the opening scene of "Edipus," the king, coming forward through the royal portal and across the raised platform in the rear of the stage, did literally "enter from the palace" and did "descend the palace steps" to the "public place" where Creon and the priests awaited him. It was a direct reversal of the ordinary effect in the ordinary theater, where the play loses in realism because a current of necessarily appreciated but purposely rejected antagonistic fact underpins the conventional illusion and compels us to perceive that the palace is but painted canvas, and even on the largest stage only four or five times as high as the prince. The palace at Orange, towering up as though it would touch the very heavens and obviously of veritable stone, was a most peremptory reality.

The fortuitous accessory of the trees growing close beside the stage added to the outdoor effect still another very vivid touch of realism, and this was heightened by the swaying of the branches, and by the gracious motion of the draperies, under the fitful pressure of the strong gusts of wind. Indeed the mistral took a very telling part in the performance. Players less perfect in their art would have been disconcerted by it, but these of the Comedie Francaise were quick to perceive and to utilize its artistic possibilities. In the very midst of the solemn denunciation of Edipus by Tiresias, the long white beard of the blind prophet suddenly was blown upward so that his face was hidden and his utterance choked by it, and the momentary pause, while he raised his hand slowly, and calmly freed his face from this chance covering, made a dramatic break in his discourse, and added to it a naturalness which vividly intensified its solemn import. In like manner the final entry of Edipus, coming from the palace after blinding himself, was made thrillingly real. For a moment, as he came upon the stage, the horror which he had wrought upon himself—his ghastly eyesockets, his blood stained face—was visible, and then a gust of wind lifted his mantle and flung it about his head so that all was concealed, and an exquisite pity for him was aroused—while he struggled painfully to rid himself of the incumbrance—by the imposition of this petty annoyance upon his mortal agony of body and of soul.

QUEER LANGUAGE.

The "Camphor Tongue" of a Wild but Inoffensive Race.

One of the queerest languages in the world, used for the queerest purposes, is the "camphor language" of Johore, a country of the Malay peninsula. It has lately been studied and reported upon by Mr. Lake, an English engineer in the service of the sultan of Johore. This language is called the "Pantang Kapor," or camphor language, and is used by the natives and all others who are engaged in gathering the product of the Malayan camphor tree and only at that time. If they used either of the languages of the region, the Malay or the aboriginal Jakun, the natives believe that they could not obtain any camphor, and for a most curious reason. The camphor tree, Dryobalanops camphora, grows abundantly in certain parts of the peninsula, but only occasionally contains camphor crystals. The camphor is not the same as that obtained from the camphor laurel of Formosa and Japan, which is the source of the ordinary camphor of commerce. It is a sort very highly prized by the Chinese in the embalming of their dead, in incense and in medicine, and the gum brings much more than the common camphor.

The Malays and other Johore natives believe that each species of tree has a spirit or divinity that presides over its affairs. The spirit of the camphor tree is known by the name of Bisan—literally "a woman." Her resting place is near the trees, and when at night a peculiar noise is heard in the woods, resembling that of a cicada, the Bisan is believed to be singing, and camphor will surely be found in the neighborhood. But the spirit of the camphor tree seems to be jealous of the precious gum and must be propitiated, and if she knows that hunters are in quest of it she will endeavor to turn their steps aside. So it is necessary to speak in a tongue which she does not understand. For this purpose the "camphor language" has been invented. It consists of a mixture of Jakun and Malay words, but these are curiously altered and reversed, and the natives positively believe that the divinity of the camphor tree is completely confused. The Jakuns who hunt the camphor are one of the wildest of people, but inoffensive. They live together with monkeys, dogs, cats, innumerable fowls and perhaps a tame hornbill in perfect harmony under movable leaf shelters built on poles in the woods.—Boston Traveller.

The Invincible Armada.

The invincible armada was a famous naval expedition sent by Philip II of Spain against England in 1588. It consisted of 130 vessels, 2,430 great guns, 4,575 quintals of powder, nearly 20,000 soldiers, above 8,000 sailors and more than 2,000 volunteers. It arrived in the English channel on July 19 and was defeated the next day by Admiral Howard, who was seconded by Drake, Hawkins and Frobiisher. Eight fire ships having been sent into the Spanish fleet, they bore off in great disorder. Profiting by the panic, the English fell upon them and captured or destroyed a number of their ships, and Admiral Howard maintained a running fight from July 21 to July 27, with such effect that the Spanish commander, despairing of success, resolved to return home, and as escape through the English channel was prevented by contrary winds he undertook to sail around the Orkneys, but the vessels which still remained to him were dispersed by storms or shipwrecked among the rocks and shallows on different parts of the Scottish and Irish coast, and upward of 5,000 men were drowned, killed or taken prisoners. Of the whole armada 53 ships only returned to Spain, and these in a wretched condition. The English lost but one ship.—Brooklyn Eagle.
